

FRESH BREWED SOLUTIONS PRIVACY POLICY

Fresh Brewed Solutions is committed to protecting your privacy. We collect your personal information that you voluntarily provide to us while using our website features. Your privacy is important to us and we do not share your information with any third-party.

- When you visit our website, we may request and collect your contact information, which is voluntarily given by you. We use your Personally Identifiable Information for internal purposes, such as responding to your correspondence or informing you of new services and offers.
- We also collect some basic non-personally identifiable information about you. Such information includes visitor data relating to referring domains, the type of browsers used, operating system software and other non-personal computer information. All this information is collected in order to provide you with better and satisfactory service and cannot be used to identify you in any way.
- We never disclose any of your information to third parties. Period.

We believe in reducing the SPAM on the Internet and will not send you any marketing material unless you specifically request it or agree to it.